

Supplier Diversity

Updated January 2019

The GE Supplier Diversity Program was launched in 1974 to ensure that we focus on doing what is right for our communities and our Company. We engage our pool of suppliers for best practices and high-quality goods and services, while enhancing economic opportunity. We believe that excellence in supplier diversity can result in excellence in supply chain management and lead to growth for all. We continually strive to grow our diverse supplier base, and annually, we recognize those in the Company who successfully support Supplier Diversity.

The Extra Step Award Program has been in place since 1976. This program recognizes and rewards GE employees across the United States for finding, developing and doing business with small, competitive women, veteran, LGBTQ and minority-owned suppliers. Over the life of the Extra Step program more than 600 employees have been recognized, as individuals and as teams, in an annual awards presentation attended by senior executives across GE's businesses.

In addition, GE's businesses are committed to supporting the communities in which they live and are involved with local supplier diversity activities to support their specific business needs.

GE's Supplier Diversity Program ensures we focus on doing what's right for our communities and our Company.
